David Paul Kivett

The superior man is slow in his words and earnest in his conduct.

Mae Frances Koontz

It's the little things in life that make us happy.

Ervin Eugene Lampert, Jr.
'Tis not what man does which exalts him, but what man could do!

Patricia Ann Lee
She is an example of a sincere, honest-to-goodness worker, capable of doing great things.

Margie Ann Lentz
Her generous heart scorns pleasure that gives others pain.

Barbara Anne Leonard
There are some whose cares seem never quite able to burden them down. She is one of that select few.

Barbara Ann Leonard
Did you ever see a piano jump?

Dorothy LeSylvia Leonard
Only a life lived for others is a life worth-while.

Edward William Lind

There's more in me than thou understand'st.

Cora Sue Loflin

It is nice to be natural when one is naturally nice.

James Donald Linder

He has a smile for everyone he meets, a laugh for every joke he hears.

Margaret Colleen Loflin

There is no task too great for those that will sit down and set about in faith to do it.

Nancy Jean Lindsay

Happiness is a habit with her.

Sandra Jean Love

She has a casual ease about her manner that sets us all at ease when she's around.

SENIORS

John Otis Lowery, Jr.

Never idle a moment, but thrifty and thoughtful of others.

Henry Logan Mangum

He was not merely a chip off the old Block, but the old Block itself.

Thomas Burnette Mattox

Many follow him; few walk by his side.

Robert Lee McCanless, II

He'd rather be dead than ill-dressed.

James Robert McCartney, III

For this is wisdom: to love, to live, to take what fate the gods may give.

William Edward Miller

He is not content to know that things are;
he asks whether they ought to be.

Jerry Roland Morris

I will utter what I believe today if it should contradict all I said yesterday.

Albert Jackson Morton, Jr.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Telka Palmer Mowery

She has a natural pleasantness that you so seldom find.

Betty Dan Nicholas

Is not every able editor ruler of his world and persuader of it also?

Mary Elizabeth Orrell

Moderate of manner, her pleasing disposition liked by all.

Frank Hudson Overton

The more a man knows the more worthy he is.

Gerald Heath Parker

He says more by silence than others say by many words.

Barbara Ann Peacock

A friend may well be reckoned the masterpiece of nature.

Judith Ann Parker

Imagination is the art of mind at which she's quite a master.

Cecil Louis Peeler

I like people. It takes a few of every kind to make the world.

Norma Jean Parrish

Her quiet charm enchants us.

James Henry Pitman

Rugged individualist.

SENIORS

James Wilford Preble

A quiet gentleman, who has his share of humor.

John Spencer Rainey

Life suits me to a "tee"!

James Pinckney Pridgen

This world could not get along without him.

Hunter Wells Richardson

He only is a well-made man who has a good determination.

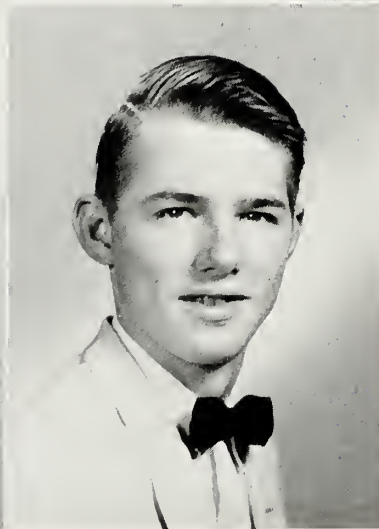

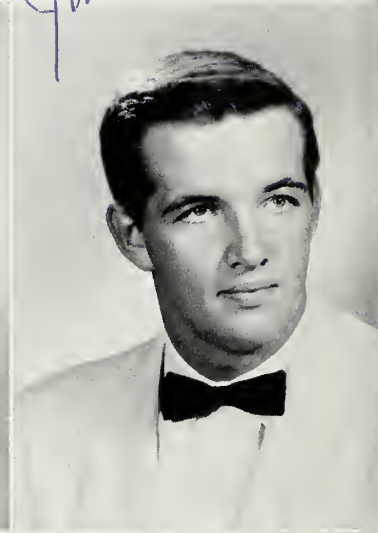

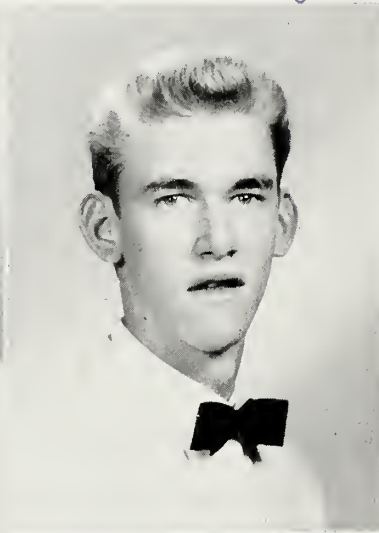

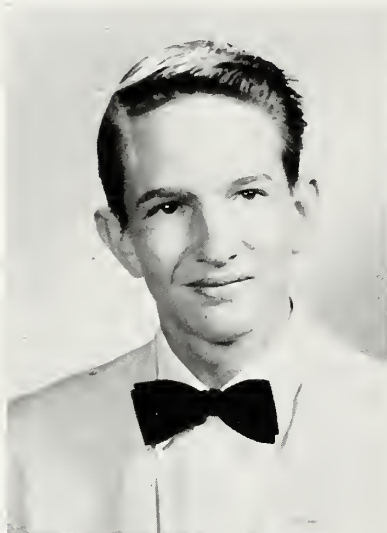

Jimmy Ben Rabon

Humor has justly been regarded as the finest perfection of poetic genius.

Wyndham Gay Robertson

And what she dares to dream, she dares to do.

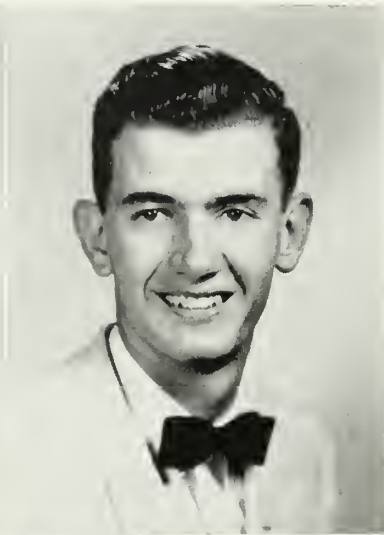

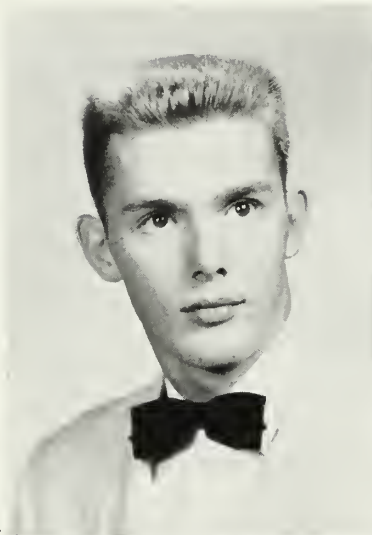

*Good Luck,
Jimmy Ben Rabon*

John P. Robinson, Jr.

He'll find a way to do it—no matter what it is.

Marvin Eugene Rouse

Nobody makes up my mind but me.

Norman Richard Rufty

If a man's eye is on the Eternal, his intellect will grow.

Shirley Jacobs Rufty

A noble soul alone can noble souls attract,
And knows alone, as ye, to hold them.

Ruth Wilkinson Ruxton

Nothing is more honorable than a grateful heart.

Gerald Lynn Sechrest

I have my own philosophy of life;
I made it;
I live it; and I change it when I please.

Sarah Ann Sharpe

A quiet attitude that well becomes a woman.

Robert Daniel Shaver, Jr.

My youth may wear and waste, but it shall never rust in my possession.

Richard Alan Shives

Get me that which makes quick laughter;
I haven't time for tears.

Evelyn Cornelius Shuford

Genius is essentially creative and the mark of an individual.

Jack Nelson Shuping

I would rather help others out of a fellow-feeling.

Sarah Frances Shuping

'Twas her thinking of others that made you think of her.

Robert Frederick Sims

Act well your part; there all the honor lies.

Patricia Ann Smith

An eye for art, a taste for style;
she has an artist's breeding.

Mary Jane Smiley

Takes offence from no one, and gives it to none.

Paul Lamont Smith

You may fear a smart man, honor a rich man, but above all else, give respect to a big man.

Karl Patrick Smith

It takes a good man to know when to laugh and when not to.

Nancy Jean Stanback

This little member gives life to every other thing about us.

SENIORS

Carole Jean Stoessel

Without music life would be a mistake.

Peggy Byrd Swaringen

No real enthusiast ever yet could rest;
'Til half mankind, like herself, were possest.

Donald Ray Stout

Individuality is either the mark of genius or the opposite.

James Edward Thompson

Get good advice before you start, and when your mind's made up,
be quick.

Charles Thomas Surratt

In the mountains of truth, one never climbs in vain.

Jerry Wayne Thompson

His smile's full of worth and goodness and blent with manly kindness.

SENIORS

Martha Bliss Thornton

She's one of those that you can trust to do a job and do it well.

Mildred Carolyn Torrence

I can promise to be candid, though I may not be impartial.

Earl Tyson Underwood

There is no great genius without a mixture of madness.

George Neal Wade

Responsibility educates a man to any task.

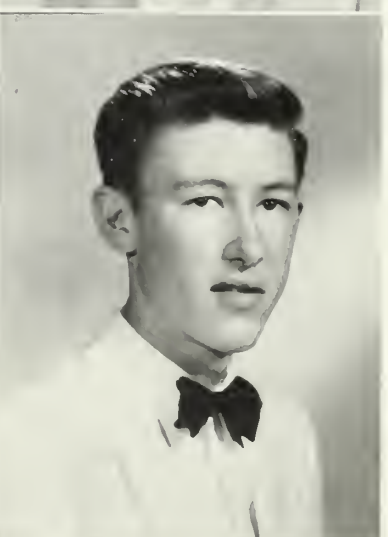

Frances Louise Walker

What she dislikes in others, she takes care to correct in herself.

Harold Eugene Walker

I have my days and my philosophies.

Daniel Henry Warlick

He has a way of seeing things that others miss.

Harry Franklin Weddington, Jr.

He is a man, take him for all in all;
You shall not look upon his like again.

James Archie Wells, Jr.

He is a fool who cannot be angry;
but he is a wise man who will not.

Claude Edward Whitaker

Next to excellence is the appreciation of it.

Erna Gale White

She has a smile that's all her own, a grin that no one copies, a laugh that can't be matched for mirth.

Glenn Caldwell White, Jr.

His manner's mild, his heart well-placed.

Paul Wilson Whitlock, Jr.

A big man, a full heart, a hearty laugh.

Kathryn Earle Workman

Laughter should dimple the cheek;
it's not natural otherwise.

Ray Gene Whitman

Reason and calm judgement, the qualities specially belonging to a leader.

Peggy Sue Yancey

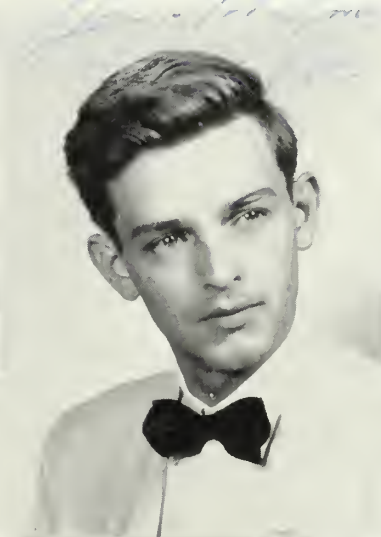

She was ever precise in promise-keeping.

Ann Holland Williams

Patience is a flower that grows not in every garden.

John Nicholas Yantsios

He means well to all men.

Boyden's unsung heroes are those vital people whose work so often goes unrecognized and unappreciated. Mrs. Edna Pinkston, school dietitian and lunchroom manager, and Miss Mary Nicolson, book room manager, both give much time and effort to Boyden. Other hard workers include Mr. Burl Smith and Mr. Oscar Chunn, janitors, and Miss Alberta Wright and Mrs. Cordia Lee Shelton, maids.

Cooks, Mrs. Carrie B. Hawkins and Mrs. Edna Foster, assist Mrs. Pinkston in the cafeteria.

JOHNNY SUTHER . . . Photographer

Thou hast snapped thy shutter at all hours of the day and night,
Thou hast done thy duty with a smile
And been patient through all adversity.

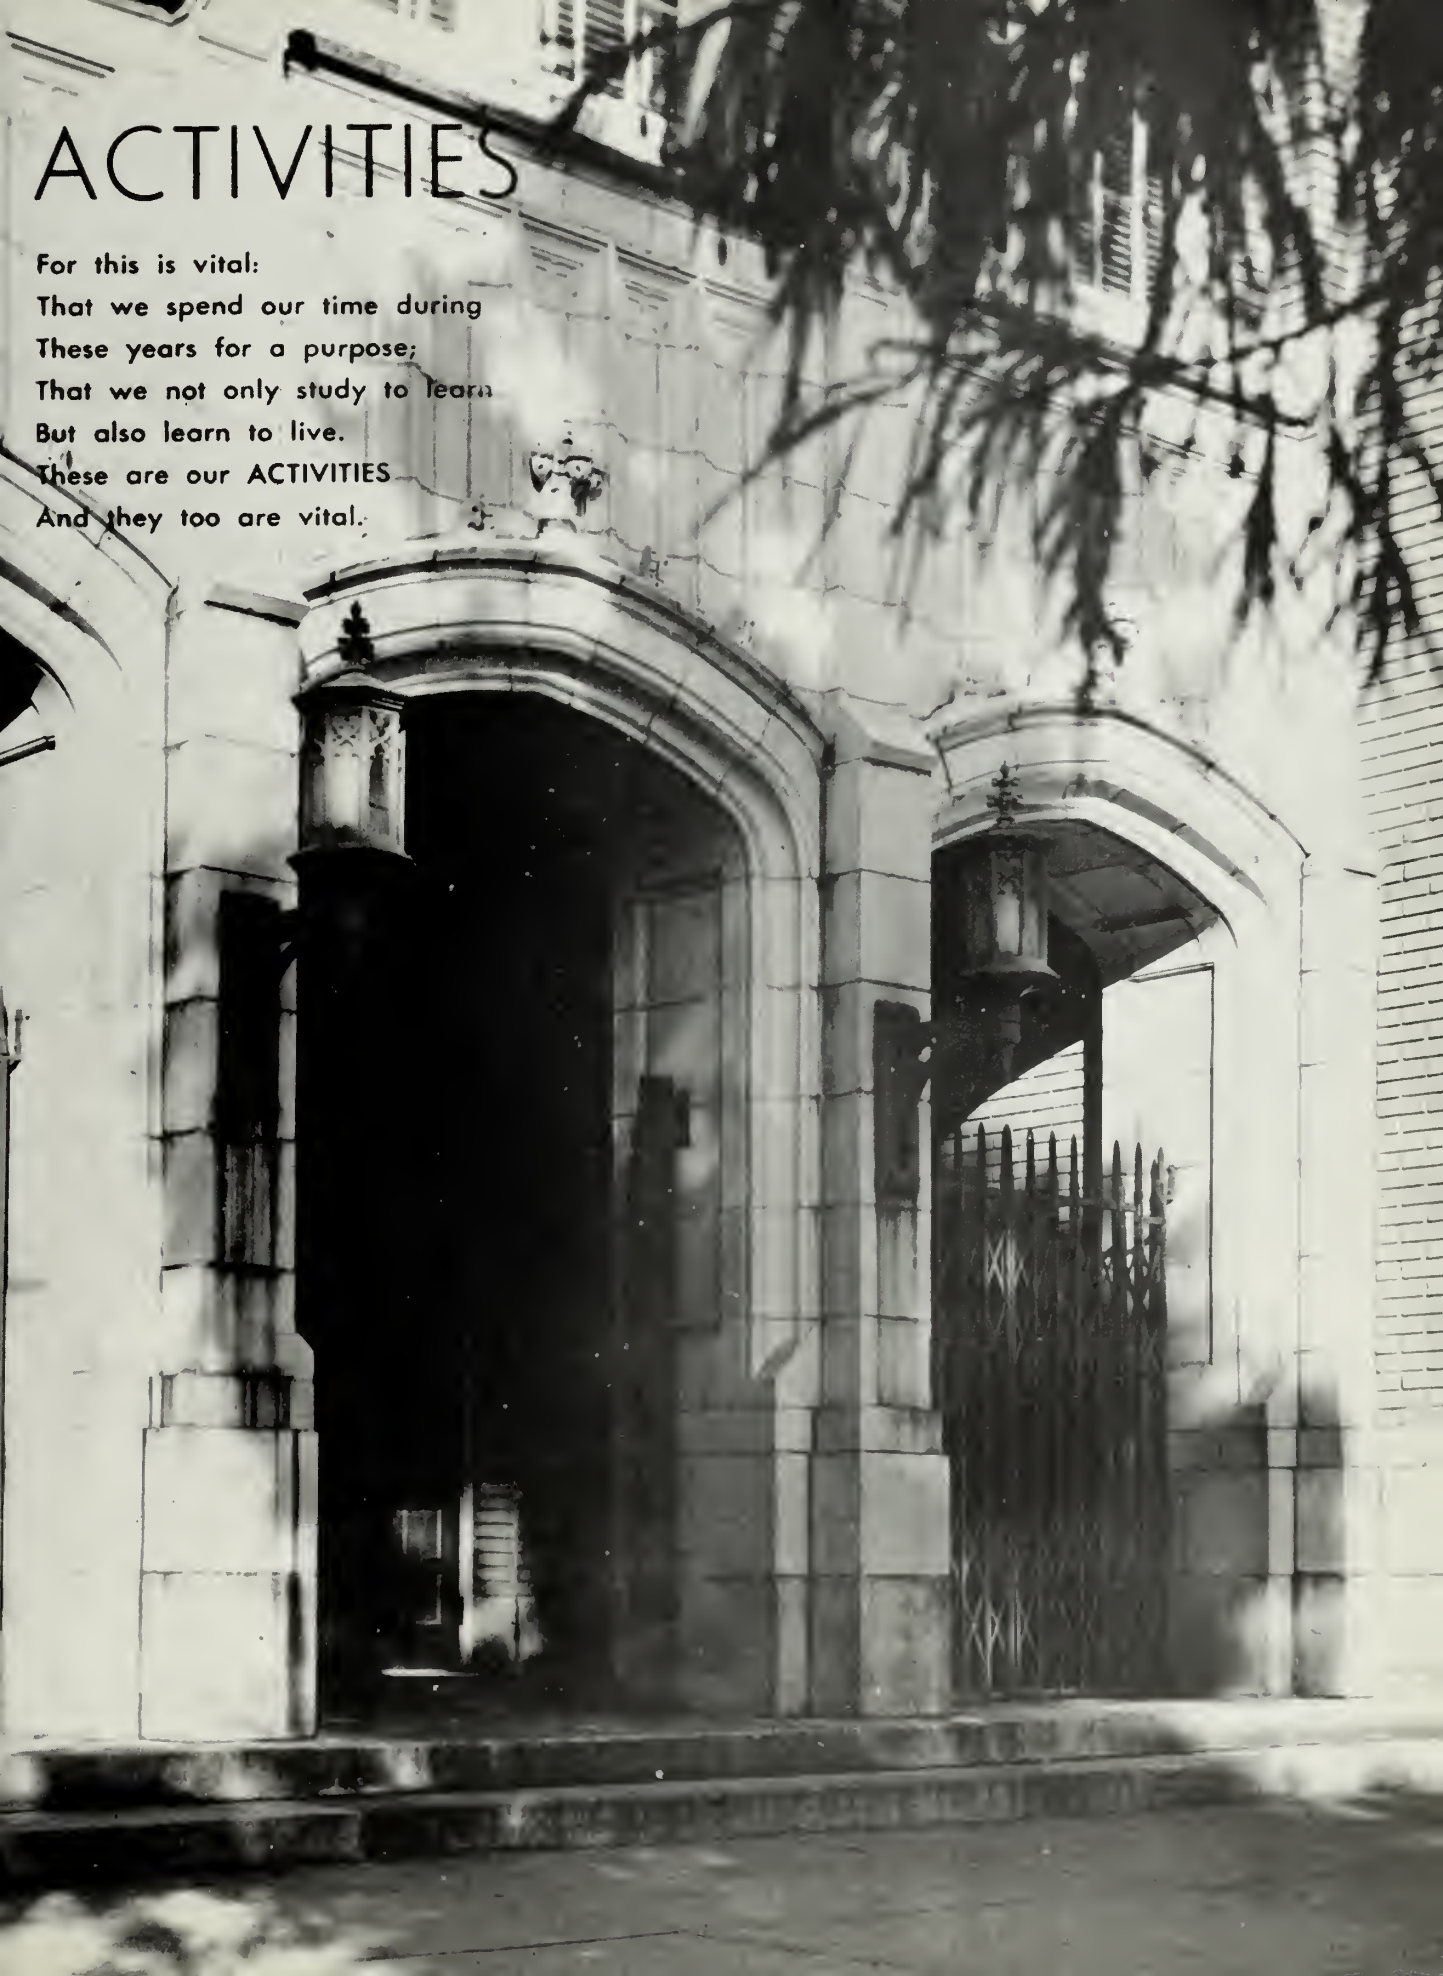

Thou hast hung out of windows and over walls,
Thou hast endured the shouts, the bedlam;
In spite of all, thou hast held thy Rolliflex Above thy head and struggled on.

To us, thou wert most vital.

Seriously, the Echo staff would like to say, "Thank you, Johnny.
We'll never forget you."

ACTIVITIES

For this is vital:
That we spend our time during
These years for a purpose;
That we not only study to learn
But also learn to live.
These are our ACTIVITIES
And they too are vital.

DRAMATIC ARTS

VITAL—as the audience is transported into a brave new world, built of gossamer, but for a while as real as life itself Vital-as the novice learns through trial and error, imitation and a small amount of luck—just how to play his part . . .

Vital-as the weeks of preparation narrow to the final bedlam of makeup, costumes, sets, properties, and lines—and then at last—to the performance . . .

Vital-as each player, howe'er humble, enchants his audience with a word . . .

Vital-as the cast comes down to earth and enjoys the knowledge of a job well done . . .

. . . . The play is finished and as he stands again upon the empty boards where once he trod a player, he knows that this too is vital . . . this too is life . . .
